Summer Lectures to Top Activity Program

Hayakawa, Stines, Gump, Willson
Will Give Talks at Commerce High

A lecture series, featuring four outstanding guest speakers, will highlight the summer session activity program. Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, Norman C. Stines, Richard Gump, and Meredith Willson will present lectures on successive weeks at the Commerce High auditorium. In addition to these speakers, movies, teas, guided tours, recreational swimming, and a "Get Acquainted Dance" will round out the summer activity fare. Admission to all these events is free with the purchase of an activity card.

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, well known to San Francisco State students for the lectures on jazz and semantics that he delivered here last year, will initiate the series when he speaks on "Great Books, Idolatry and Kindred Delusions" on Thursday, July 2, at 8:15 p.m. Dr. Hayakawa is teaching English 137 (Language in Thought and Action) and English 240, a workshop, at State this summer.

On Thursday, July 9, at 8:15 p.m. Norman C. Stines, Jr., first secretary of the American Embassy in Moscow (1950-52), will speak on "Inside Russia Today." This lecture will be illustrated with more than 150 35 mm Kodachrome slides.

A veteran of ten years experience in the U.S. foreign service, Stines had his first look at Russia as a child when his father, a mining engineer, was employed for a time. In 1952 Mr. Stines resigned from the Foreign Service to return to America.

Of his unusual pictures, he says: "With a few exceptions

5000 to 6000 Enrollment Is Forseen for All Campi

Summer session courses go on sale today for the modest price of $7.50 per unit. Registration, which is being held in the Women's gym of the new campus will continue from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., and on Monday, June 22, from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Anyone For a Swim?

The State college swimming pool on the new campus will be open daily throughout the summer session from 3:30-5:30 p.m. On Wednesday evenings the pool will accommodate students from 7-9:30 p.m.

The last day for registration for the regular session will be Friday, June 26, although class instruction will begin on Tuesday, June 23.

The registration procedure starts at the main entrance of the gym where the registration booklets are issued. Students will then fill out the booklets and proceed into the gym to pay the fees, and make out their programs.

All education courses will require the approval of the educational division before the student can enroll. Also, courses limited in the number of students will require a definite sign-up before the student is admitted to the class.

ADVISERS AVAILABLE

A special adviser from City College will be on hand to assist the City College students in planning their programs. Faculty members from State will be available to aid the other students in their program planning.

A total enrollment of 5000 to 6000 students is expected for the regular summer session, according to Dean Alan Johnson. This includes students on both the old and new campi, John Muir school, off-campus sessions at Santa Rosa J. C., Modesto J. C., Vallejo J. C., and the study tours in Asia, Europe, and other sections of the globe.

Summer Sessions Director Extends His Welcome to All on Behalf of Faculty

I wish to take this opportunity to extend greetings in behalf of the Summer Session Administration and Faculty and to wish you a profitable and pleasant experience during your stay at San Francisco State College. The summer session program has been planned to meet your needs. We will have on the campus not only many students from California, but representatives from most of our states and a large number of foreign countries. The occasions for exchange of ideas and experiences will be many and will give much opportunity for better understanding of the many complex problems which confront our own nation and the world in which we live.

The summer session offerings have been extended to include many special conferences and workshops and a large number of visiting faculty from other colleges, universities and school systems will complement our own resident faculty. San Francisco State College is noted for its fine student-faculty relationships and I am sure you will find every member of the faculty ready to assist you with your particular problems. The Associated Students have also planned an extensive program for you. It is hoped you will take full advantage of the special offerings to which you are entitled through your student body card.

For the first summer we are making full use of the buildings which are now completed on our new campus including the facilities of our new library, new classrooms, and completely equipped laboratories and shops. As the new campus is still under construction there will probably be some temporary inconveniences. The landscaping is in progress and our new cafeteria is still incomplete. This means we can offer only the facilities of the Snack Bar at our new location, but all of you will be able to find reasonable and good food service in the shopping areas adjacent to the college.

I also want to invite you to come to the Summer Sessions Offices at any time. For your convenience we will maintain office hours in Room 117, College Hall, on the old campus as well as in our offices in the Administration Building on the new campus.

will be delivered by Meredith Willson on Thursday, July 23, at 8:15 p.m. He will speak on "The Inside of It."

A versatile artist, Meredith Willson has won nationwide acclaim for his classical and popular musical compositions, his orchestral conducting, his humorous philosophy and writings. A star of such NBC programs as "The Big Show," Meredith Willson's Music Room and other popular shows, he has a music background that has ranged from piccolo-playing with John Philip Sousa to first flautist with Toscanini. He has conducted the San Francisco Symphony. The Los Angeles Philharmonic and other great orchestras as well as his own music groups.

As a humorous philosopher, Meredith Willson has a seemingly inexhaustible supply of anecdotes and reminiscences of his home town folks in Mason City, Iowa, from which he draws hilarious fables on the foibles of our time.

General admission will be $1 to all lectures except Meredith Willson's which will be $1.50. Admission to all lectures will be free to student body card holders with the exception of Meredith Willsons, on which there will be a 25 cent charge.

The library is basically a service organization which offers not only educational books and novels, but magazines, government documents, pamphlets, courses of study, units of work, elementary and secondary texts and commercial texts as well. Closely related to the library is a film service which provides audio-visual materials, equipment, and films for classes.

For the convenience of students attending the various off-campus summer sessions, branches of the education library have been installed in the immediate vicinity of Concord Unified School, Modesto and Santa Rosa Junior colleges.

Bay Bridge 'Double Crossing'

Are Politics Responsible?

By DALE TUSSING

The most recent figures, compiled about two years ago, indicate that about 30 per cent of State students are commuters. Admittedly this figure is not for summer session students, who represent quite another group; yet the figure indicates that the current question of a new bay bridge is one of vital importance to State students.

The controversy is one between proponents of a bridge parallel to the present San Francisco Bay Bridge and a "southern crossing" to connect this city and southern Alameda county.

Advocates of the parallel crossing to Emeryville and Oakland point to statistics that a far greater number of commuters go to and from that area than southern Alameda county. They claim that a southern crossing will do nothing to alleviate present traffic difficulties.

But those favoring a southern crossing counter these claims with figures showing that the tendency is toward a greater and greater percentage going south. The fact that southern Alameda county is the fastest-growing area in northern California tends to substantiate their claim. They also point to the Oakland "bottleneck" for drivers headed out U. S. Highway 50 to Stockton, Reno, and points east.

But behind the scenes, the big point at issue for Oaklanders is that they don't want traffic diverted from their bottleneck; nothing builds a city faster than important traffic. And likewise, business competitors in San Francisco would rather see anything than the continuing growth of the East Bay, paid for, they feel, with money diverted from San Francisco.

Here is where the power politics enter in.

Governor Earl Warren has significant ties in Oakland. He got his start there. J. R. Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, is pretty well known as a statewide political power, and it is no coincidence that his son, Senator William F. Knowland, was appointed by Warren to fill that post when it was left vacant by the death of Hiram Johnson. And it is no coincidence that Warren favors the parallel crossing.

In 1949, when the bridge question first found the public eye, it was essentially a matter of party politics. San Francisco and southern Alameda county alike were regarded as Democratic, while Oakland has long been a Republican (Knowland) stronghold. And the state then, as now, had a Republican administration.

But to pass a parallel crossing, Oaklanders had to find favor of the federal government, for two reasons. First, to finance a bridge, and to assure its use, they had to retain tolls on the present Bay Bridge. This requires an act of Congress, as the Bay Bridge is just about paid for. And second, a parallel bridge must necessarily go through Yerba Buena Island, federal property.

At that time Congress was in Democratic hands, and the parallel bridge failed.

This spring, the California legislature passed a bill to build a southern crossing. San Francisco papers called it a "major blow to the Warren-Oakland bloc."

Although a southern crossing does not have to go through Yerba Buena, it does have to be financed. Californians are awaiting the decision of Congress.

J. R. Knowland has his own system of checks and balances. Failing to block the bill locally, he still has an ace in the hole—his son, who is acting Majority Leader in the Senate.

Senator Knowland announced his terms frankly the other day. His proposal would continue tolls on the Bay Bridge after it is paid for, with half the revenue going to a southern crossing—and half to a parallel crossing.

The Call-Bulletin called this the "double crossing double cross."

San Franciscans await the result, hoping that Congress will recognize the wishes of the state as represented in an act of its legislature. But as long as undercover politics plays a part, the question will not be resolved so easily.

New Photo Studio To Open Next Fall

By JIM KEOLKER

Creative photography will be offered the State student next fall complete with a new addition to the faculty, fabulous new studio and laboratory, and courses designed to include the camera "as another creative expression in the art field." The courses are designed to be of general interest to all phases of student curriculum.

Mr. John Gutmann, associate professor of art, and present instructor in photography, announced that a pair of classes will make up the fall photography program. A new instructor from the east will assist Gutmann.

Elementary photography will consist of the basic principles in optics, dark room procedure, and light investigation. The second class of advanced photography will concern itself with the qualities of composition, skill, and design of picture stories as creative art.

"It is our sincere hope to offer four or five more specialized courses in the near future," Gutmann commented. "We recognize the need for creative investigation in photography besides the usual technical and journalistic approaches. Our new facilities, the most modern to be found, should certainly be conducive to the creative spirit."

Divided into three separate rooms of the Visual Arts and Industries building, the studio and dark rooms have been labeled one of the finest plants in California. Thanks to Sacramento budget hounds, equipment is scarce, but what little has been made available is of the very best quality and design.

Designed by Mr. Gutmann specifically for State students, the new laboratory consists of six individual dark rooms, each complete with spacious sink, washing trays, light-tight draws and cabinets, and specially designed lighting systems to eliminate the traditional hazard of unsuspecting students barging into occupied dark rooms.

With such generally excellent facilities as these being offered the students, the Creative Arts division hopes to one day have a full-time program for the photographer.

In the meantime, students interested in being able to partake and enjoy the newness and originality of these facilities and the courses being offered, are urged to either call or see Mr. John Gutmann in room 208 of the Arts and Industries building.

Old Cafeteria is Still Food Center

Because of construction difficulties and delay in the shipment of equipment, the new cafeteria on the new campus will not be opened this Summer. The food facilities on the new and old campus will be as follows:

The main cafeteria on the old campus will be open from 7:15 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. and from 10:45 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Snack Bar and the Faculty Dining Room on the old campus are closed permanently. The only food service available on the new campus will be the Grill, and it will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, and will serve complete breakfasts, hot and cold sandwiches, hot soups, etc.

Every effort is being made to accommodate as many students as possible in the Grill. There are no food facilities available at John Muir school for those students attending classes there. However, these students may come to the cafeteria on the old campus, which is within a very short walking distance.

Runnin' and Wrestlin' Traced to Cave Men

Track, the oldest form of sport, has an intriguing history. Frank Menke, nationally known sports authority offers a good, and no doubt authoritative, run down on the genesis of track and field events in his book "The Encyclopedia of Sports."

There are two sides to every story, though. While we respect Mr. Menke and his knowledge of sports, we will have to disagree with him.

Menke gives the following reason for the first running of foot races: "Wild animals either hunted man for food, or just to destroy him. Man, in defense, either had to fight back, or run away from this danger. The fast running man escaped—and lived. The slow of foot were overtaken and killed."

While it was true that man was hunted by wild beasts, he wasn't being hunted for food. These wild beasts actually were the women of that time.

SURVIVAL OF THE FIT

We will have to agree with the author on one point, however. Some of the slow men were destroyed, but not by the beasts who followed them. They were destroyed by their own hands. There was only so much a human could take, even in those times.

Menke then goes on to explain the art of throwing as a sport. "When man found that he could outrun the wild beasts, he began to resent the idea of being pursued. Man proceeded to turn on these pursuing animals and pelted them with rocks."

While this is a very good explanation for the beginning of throwing as a sport, it is not the correct one. The cave men, after being chased around for so long, decided it would be fun to turn the tables on the gals and chase them for a change. The gals, however, were just a little too fast for them, as is usually the case even now-a-days, so the men had to bring them down with rocks. If the cave man was interested enough, and he usually was, he became a great marksman.

The next phase of track and field Menke explains, is wrestling. He says, "Earliest man sometimes was trapped into life and death fights with animals, with nothing serving him except his hands and arms. Muscular power was vital to him; that, and dexterity with the hands. And so wrestling can be presumed as the third sport of the human race; wrestling of the rough and tumble variety, with no holds barred, and use your fists if you wish."

ORIGIN OF WRESTLING

This can very easily be explained. Wrestling really developed after the man felled the woman with the rock.

NO LOCKERS ASSIGNED

Lockers will not be assigned during summer session according to Mr. Runar Stone, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Students must choose their own lockers and furnish their own locks. However, all locks must be removed by the end of summer school.

The author then makes short statements on how weight lifting and obstacle jumping originated. He says, "Obstacles often may have blocked the way of ancient man. They had to be moved by the hands, supported by muscular power. Humans found some obstacles beyond these. They met this problem by leaping over them."

NOT A SELF EVIDENT TRUTH

Now these may sound like very reasonable and sound explanations, but once again they are not quite right. Weight lifting started when the men began marrying the women that they had brought down with their rocks and strangle holds.

Marriage meant that they had to carry their women over the threshold, and, as anthropology students know, the woman of those days was no delicate, petite little thing; she was quite hefty. Thus was born the sport of weight lifting.

The obstacle jumping started when junior arrived. It seems that junior would leave his toy bones lying around the house after dark, and so when papa would come home late after a night out with the boys, he would trip over them. This would alert mama, and the beef would be on. Papa decided to avoid any more beatings, and therefore developed the knack of jumping over junior's toys. Thus, obstacle jumping was created.

So there you have it, an expose of the true origins of the sport of track and field. We write this as a public service.

Ice Cube Case: Spies, Murderers, Cheaters Exposed in Local Rackets

By LeROY PACINI

This is the '42 club. A teeming metropolis within a metropolis. A filthy den of crooks, spys, murders, and San Francisco State students. This is a place that has caught many an unwary college student in its vicious web and choked them before they even had a chance to get started in life. There are some who devote their lives in trying to prevent this, that's my job, I'm a dirty rat.

My name is Giuesippi Fridani. My partner and I, Bill De Clark were working the morning watch at the '42 Club stake-out. We had afternoon classes. For several days we had been attempting to nab Ray Doyle and Wayne Britton, two unscrupulous fugitives from English class, who had been duping poor, innocent beer drinkers. Their scheme was melting down ice cubes which had been dipped in Four Roses, and selling them for straight shots. They had been cleaning up.

ALL QUIET

My partner and I arrived at the stake-out spot, just across the street from the '42 Club, at about 9:07 and 1/4 that morning. Nothing was breaking, and we were about to give up when it happened!! At 10:08 and 7/16, we spotted Doyle and Britton stealthily making their way into the Club. We waited until approximately 10:10 and 17/19, giving them time to make their move, and then we made ours. We walked slowly but deliberately across the street, and while nonchalantly strolled in through the front door of the '42 Club, De Clark hurried around to the back to cover the rear entrance.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

I arrived just in time to catch Doyle in the act, an ice cube in one hand and a blow torch in the other. I immediately rushed into action and grabbed Doyle. De Clark had by this time raced in from the back and had seized Britton.

They put up no struggle, claiming innocence. We took them to the down-town offices at San Francisco State, where they were booked and then brought to the interrogation room. We grilled them all during biology class, but to no avail. Finally, half way through social science. Britton broke down and confessed that Doyle was the guilty party. After that it was easy. Doyle confessed about Britton, and before we knew it, the thing was snowballing. Everybody was confessing. We had created a Frankenstein monster and couldn't control it. Before we realized what had happened, half the student body, several professors, and De Clark and myself were accused of the same crime.

We finally succeeded in calming the turmoil with tear gas. In a moment the results of the trial.

The trial was held in the city and county of San Francisco, state of California, district of San Francisco State College, Judge Donald Biggs presiding. The accused were found guilty on ten counts of cutting English classes, nine counts of cheating in the English classes that they did attend, and fraud. They are now serving two year terms in the Language Arts Department.

FASHION SHOW

The Dames Club will present a fashion show on Saturday, June 27th, at 7 p.m. in Frederic Burk auditorium. The theme of the show will be "Aloha Hawaii." There will be door prizes and entertainment. An admission charge of 50c will be made, and tickets are available at Dean Wells' office in the Administration building and the Summer Sessions office at the new campus, and at the door.
